Thieves strike homeless couple

By EDGAR PEREZ
An elderly Shoreline Park couple whose home burned to the ground July 14 were victimized last week by burglars who stripped them of their last remaining possessions, the man's tools with which he earned a living.
Mr. and Mrs. James Lindsey, whose home was located at the corner of Timberline and Chesapeake Streets, reported thieves broke into a shed on the property while they have been staying at a US-90 motel after the fire left them homeless.
"They took two skill saws, a drill and my tool chest," Lindsey said, adding, "that was my last hope of being able to make a few dollars."
Lindsey said the tools were stored in the shed which firemen saved from the flames, along with a washing machine and some dozen baby chickens.

"They left the crate but took the chickens," said Mrs. Lindsey, who reported the thieves also made off with her washing machine.
Rent on their motel room which has been paid by Hancock County Emergency Service was due to expire Saturday night, leaving the couple without a place to stay, their last touch with security being an old pickup truck.
"I guess we'll be sleeping in the truck Sunday night," Mrs. Lindsey lamented.
The couple said they were told at the Hancock County Welfare Department Thursday they are probably eligible for food stamps.

"But even so, we don't have anyplace to cook, and you can't spend food stamps in the cafes where we've been eating," Lindsey said.

"The Red Cross told us there's nothing they can do unless at least five homes are involved in a disaster," Lindsey reported.
He said the sheriff's office is investigating the theft.

The couple's ward and nephew, Jerry Smith, 9, has returned to Mobile, Ala., with Mrs. Lindsey's sister until the Lindsey family can find some solution to their housing dilemma.
"I hope somehow to get enough money together to start rebuilding," Lindsey said Thursday, exhibiting a faith in the future which will not die in the face of an almost overwhelming string of adversity.

The Shoreline Park home burned after lightning struck an adjacent tree during a late afternoon thunderstorm and jumped to the house.

The Lindsey family were at a laundromat at the time.

Firemen said the house was completely engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Lindsey asked the firemen to save the shed and his tools which they managed, little knowing their efforts would be wasted at the hands of heartless burglars.

Until they can establish an address, the Lindsey family are receiving mail at general delivery, Waveland.

County schools oust cafeteria supervisor

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
Hancock County School Board voted 3 to 2 yesterday not to re-hire Mrs. Mary Detherage as district cafeteria supervisor, despite incessant urging by Superintendent Terrell Randolph to do so.
Board members Oris Ladner, Monvel Cuevas and Woodrow Ladner voted no; with Louie Ladner and Johnny Banks voting yes on renewing Detherage's contract.

"I'll vote to re-hire her, but not for $11,000 a year," Oris Ladner stated.
"Get us somebody we can work with and we will hire a district cafeteria supervisor," Cuevas and Woodrow Ladner told Randolph.
Randolph exclaimed, "This school board always had trouble with the cafeteria system until Mrs. Detherage was hired. Since we hired her we have not had any problems with the cafeteria system."

Rhodes withdraws from lifting meet

By RICH ADAMS
Joseph (Doc) Rhodes of Gulfport, former world champion weightlifter in the middleweight division, has withdrawn from the Senior National Weightlifting meet slated Aug. 18 and 19 at St. Stanislaus High School.

Rhodes withdrew from the prestigious Amateur Athletic Union-sanctioned meet because of what he called "a spinal column injury."

Rhodes, a native of Bay St. Louis, said he stopped training for the meet about a week ago but had not been able to work on his dead-lift since moving from the middleweight class to the 180-pound division in February at the State Powerlift Meet in Bay St. Louis.

"It takes about a year to become efficient in a different weight class," Rhodes said.

"If you gain 25 pounds you don't automatically get 25 pounds stronger,"

Council prods laggard 78 Small Cities project

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The Bay St. Louis Council was unanimous last week in the authorization of Dr. Michael Smith, president of Advanced Designs Incorporated, to prepare advertisements to start next Thursday for the upgrading of the Leonard Street Water well.

The State Board of Health will review the plans and specifications on the project prior to advertisement.

The well on Leonard Street is the largest on the Bay St. Louis Water system but has been "pirated" for their wells according to Dr. Smith especially the chlorination parts.

The State Board of Health will not give approval to the Small Cities Community Project until the State receives assurance that funds are available for the well upgrading project. The well upgrading project is one of the 78 Small Cities Program calls for the upgrading of water and sewer lines on the 500 blocks of Washington, Keller and Sycamore Streets.

Smith reported to the Council at a

Jail terms suspended

Hancock County Circuit Court Judge Rosta Viano Friday suspended sentences meted to two brothers, Stanley and Billy Joe, charged with grand larceny and burglary of a dwelling.

Billy Joe, 21, of Shoreline Park and Stanley, 19, of Bay St. Louis, were arrested on the 100th anniversary of the founding of Hancock County. They were charged with grand larceny and burglary of a dwelling. The brothers were arrested on the 100th anniversary of the founding of Hancock County. They were charged with grand larceny and burglary of a dwelling.

Dr. Smith reported several months ago that lack of pressure control was causing problems with the wells.

Smith said that plans and specifications for the well upgrading project will be forwarded to the State Board of Health for approval by the middle of next week.

Port approves secret budget

By EDGAR PEREZ
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Thursday approved a $210,000 budget for fiscal 1980 but refused to make public details of where the tax dollars will go next year.
"The budget is apparently an increase of some $15,000 over this year's operation, and apparently includes a substantial salary increase for Port Director Wilson Wehre and other commission employees."

"I have been instructed by the president (Commission President J. D. McCulloch) not to release this budget," Wehre said following a commission meeting Thursday night at which copies of projected revenues and proposed expenditures were distributed to commission members but not to the public.

Commissioner Fred Curet requested a copy of this year's budget for comparison with the new proposals, and commission secretary Paulette Fernandez supplied the 1978-1979 budget to selected commissioners.

Astonishingly, after a brief perusal by the commissioners, Ms. Fernandez insisted they return the copies to her.

The commission has scheduled a 7:30 p.m. meeting Thursday at which members of the board of supervisors will be asked to review the new budget prior to formal presentation of that document for supervisor approval at a 9 a.m. board meeting Monday, July 30.

Also Thursday, the commission authorized its attorneys to complete a final draft deed on property to be purchased at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

The Borg-Warner purchase agreement with the commission provides for sale of a portion of the public roadway and railroad tracks bordering the property on which the company holds an option.

Wehre said rights-of-way are held by the commission on the east and south sides of the Borg-Warner tract to allow for later construction of rail and road access to a portion of the park cut-off by the Borg-Warner agreement.

The commission also discussed Thursday the possible loss to industrial development of other park property, those sections by bureaucratic edict.

The commission has asked the U.S. Corps of Engineers to study feasibility of including the park's barge canals in the Corps' maintenance dredging programs.

But environmentalist groups such as the Mississippi and Louisiana Wildlife Services which monitor Corps projects have placed a stumbling block in the park dredging proposal.

Environmentalists feel spoils sites set out in original park plans, since diked by the commission and used at least once for spoils when the canals were first dredged in the early 70's, have reverted to wetlands.

"They are asking us to abandon a $200,000 asset we have in four already-developed spoils sites, and to take on a $100,000 liability in establishing new sites on park land which is saleable or on land we would have to acquire from International Paper Co.," Wehre lamented.

Curet, who calls environmentalists "frog-catchers," feels the commission should seek the influence of the state's U.S. senators in the matter.

But Wehre cautioned the commission the Corps study is being conducted at the commission's request, warning, "If the Corps should drop our proposal, the county will be saddled with a commitment to keep these channels dredged from now to eternity and that could cost millions."

"I'm not against the position," Woodrow Ladner remarked, "just get us somebody we can work with."

Randolph replied, "The woman is a college graduate, a certified nutritionist—and since she's been hired we've had financial statements presented to us on the cafeteria system, something that was not done before."

Several board members noted financial statements had been presented to the board, however statements were submitted from individual cafeterias within the system.

"Before we had to borrow funds from the school district for cafeteria expenditures—since she's been employed we haven't had to do that," Randolph roared.

Randolph noted having a centralized food supervisor allows quantity purchasing of food and centralization of other services.

"If we do not hire her, what are we going to do about a supervisor?" Randolph questioned.

"Find someone else," board president Woodrow Ladner replied.

School Board officials also received a request to allow female students to wear tank tops from a representative of the Hancock North Central Student Council.

The 1978-1979 student handbook bans tank tops.

Cuevas recommended the tank tops have "at least two inch straps and fit snugly underneath the arm."

Tommy Neacise, who said he lives behind property that Beat Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson is renting from the school district, asked the board whether Peterson can legally sell the grass on the 18th section land to landscapers and others.

The board authorized its attorney Joseph Gex to investigate and determine whether Peterson can legally sell the grass.

In addition, the board accepted the resignations of sixth grade teacher Margaret Varnell of Gulfview Elementary, and third grade teacher Helen Lee Parker of Charles B. Murphy.

"I loved them all," Ms. Varnell said of her students in her resignation.

In other business, the Board approved:

—Robert Sams and Debra Ladner as study hall monitors at Hancock North Central.

—Arles Savell as a math teacher at Hancock North Central.

—Charlie Jacobs, Sharon Ladner, Janice Randall, Mary Hoyer and Polly Boswell as bus drivers.

—Advertisement for bids on consumable garbage.

—Advertisement for bids on milk and milk products, bread and cereal.

—Release of Cachanda Terrell and Jeff Hoda from the Hancock County School District so they can attend the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

—The June docket as amended.

he added.

Brother Bennett, weightlifting coach at St. Stanislaus and close acquaintance of Rhodes, said he had discussed Rhodes' injury with the strongman early last week.

"He told me he had a back problem, and we discussed it," Brother Bennett said Thursday.

"He really wanted to lift in this meet. Not only because the meet is being conducted in his home state, but also because he would be lifting in front of a hometown crowd," he continued.

"I am really sorry he cannot lift in the meet, but I think his health is more important than winning a meet," the weightlifting coach added.

Rhodes, a member of the Mississippi Ironmen Weightlifting Club in Gulfport, said he will probably lift in the next state meet slated in Bay St. Louis in February, 1980.

Rhodes' withdrawal from the U.S. AAU Championship Meet leaves Gulfport's Lee Mable the only Mississippian competing in the event.

Mable, who trains with Rhodes, is a former junior national AAU champion and record holder.

He placed second in the 1972 World Nationals and finished third in the 1978 Senior Nationals, both times lifting in the 132-pound category.

ETV Documentaries featured next week

A line-up of documentaries highlight programming July 31-Aug. 2 on Mississippi ETV.

At 8 p.m., Tuesday, July 31, Barbara Kopple's award-winning "Harlan County, USA" will be presented on "PBS Cinema Showcase."

The documentary chronicles the efforts of 180 Kentucky coal mining families to win a United Mine Workers of America contract.

After the miners voted to join the union and the parent company of the mine refused to sign a standard UMW contract, an illegal strike ensued.

The film, shot on location, follows the strike through confrontation on the picket lines between strikebreakers and police; picketing by striking miners and their families on Wall Street and at the company's annual stockholder's meeting; and ultimately, the murder of a young striker by a company foreman.

At 7 p.m., Wednesday,

August 1, "A Matter of Time" looks at attitudes about aging—attitudes which are based on widely held misconceptions about the elderly.

"Word Is Out" at 8 p.m., Wednesday, August 1, explores a variety of histories and lifestyles within America's gay communities.

The people in the film tell their own stories which include not only the gay experience, but the human experience as well.

At 8 p.m., Thursday, August 2, "Bad Boys" outlines the different aspects of some juvenile criminals' lives: a Long Island City, Queens, high school; Spofford Detention Center, a controversial detention facility for juveniles awaiting trial and sentencing, at an alleged cost of $65,000 a year a piece; and an upstate New York maximum security prison for juveniles.

Following "Bad Boys" at 10 p.m. is a rebuttal by some students of the high school included in "Bad Boys." The title of the program is "We're Not Bad Boys."

State Senator

Hancock and Pearl River Counties

During the twelve years that you have given me the privilege of serving you as your State Senator, I have worked hard to attain a position of leadership in the State Senate. By virtue of both tenure and leadership ability, I now serve on key Senate committees, the place where the real work is done. I am Chairman of the Senate Elections Committee which, among many other bills, handled successfully re-apportionment of the Mississippi Legislature, a law recently approved by the Federal Court in Washington. I am Vice-Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which deals with all tax legislation. This past session I co-authored and introduced a bill which will result in an 83 million dollar tax cut. That bill will cut the State income tax and will remove the sales tax from prescription drugs, home water bills, and purchases by rural water associations. It also granted full homestead exemption from ad valorem taxes to the totally disabled. I co-authored and introduced at an earlier session the bill which granted full homestead exemption from ad valorem taxes to persons over 65, a law I am especially proud to have had a part in passing. I worked to pass the bill last year which removed the sale tax from home electrical and gas bills. I worked successfully to add funding provisions in the 1978 Highway Refunding Bond Bill for reconstruction and maintenance of our existing highways. As a result of that effort, I was able to obtain a commitment from our State Highway Commissioner to overlay Highway 11 in Pearl River County, a part of which is now completed and the other under contract. I will continue to work for improvement of our state highways, including funding to four-lane Highway 603 from Interstate 10 to Highway 90 in Hancock County. I have also been a strong supporter of education at all levels. I will continue that support. During the time I have served in the State Senate, I am proud of the close working relationship I have had with our City and County officials, the members of the House of Representatives from our two counties, and the people of Hancock and Pearl River Counties. We have worked well together on many projects of importance to our two counties—projects which include, to name a few, full employment at NSTL; support for the Navy's move and the Army Ammunition Project; construction of the Interstate Hospitality Centers at suitable locations in both counties; reconstruction of Long Bridge in Ridgely; have the State Park (Buccaneer) which was designated to be located on the Coast built in Hancock County; efforts to stop the diversion of Pearl River waters into Louisiana; required the sale of lands in Hancock County; transfer of oil lease money from the State to Hancock County schools; removing the Farmers Market privilege tax and many more. I ask that I be allowed to continue working with you as your State Senator for the benefit of Hancock and Pearl River Counties. For Continued Effective and Experienced Leadership.

House-Senate conferees fund four destroyers

House-Senate conferees have agreed to fund the U.S. Navy's purchase of all four destroyers originally intended for the government of Iran, according to Congressman Trent Lott, R-Miss.

Lott said the conferees earmarked $1.35 billion from the supplemental 1979 defense appropriations bill to buy the ships which are under construction at Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula. The vessels were originally being built for the government of Iran, but the contracts were cancelled when the shah's administration collapsed in the Middle East country.

"The inclusion of all four Iranian destroyers in the supplemental 1979 defense appropriations is a high water mark for national defense in this country," Lott said. "It means that the U.S. Navy will get four modern ships it desperately needs and that construction on those ships will continue at Ingalls."

"I believe now that both houses of Congress will accept the conference report containing these ships, and we can turn our attention to other pressing issues involving our national defense posture," he said.

The Fifth District congressman expressed his appreciation to Senator John C. Stennis, who chaired the conference, and to Congressman Jack Edwards, of Alabama, for their "diligence and perseverance in getting the job done."

questions and answers

Q. My husband and I both have Medicare coverage. We've been thinking about joining a prepayment plan. Can you give us some information about how such plans work?

A. Prepayment plans make health services available to their members in a special way. Generally, each member pays regular premiums to the plan. The member can then receive health services the plan provides, whenever he or she needs them, without additional charges. In some plans, small charges are made for certain services, such as drugs or home visits. Many prepayment plans have made arrangements with Medicare to receive direct payments for services they furnish which are covered under Medicare medical insurance.

Book Review By Hart Shorn Bay St. Louis

"Cooking Up A Storm" a 96-page cook book written by Katy Caire of Pass Christian, will be re-issued in October. James Troxler, official of Lafayette Publishers announced this week.

The book has been out of print since 1973. It was originally published in 1971. "Based on reports from readers of the original publication, we are going to a smaller, pocket size," said Troxler. "It is both a matter of convenience to users and a way of meeting soaring printing costs. It will retail for $3.50."

A native of Biloxi, Mrs.

Caire spent most of her life in New Orleans before moving to Pass Christian permanently in 1968.

She combined her career as newspaper writer, public relations woman and newspaper editor with housewife and motherhood duties, raising two sons, William and Jack McGuire. Many of the recipes in the cook book originally appeared as weekly columns in the Pass Christian Owl and the Waveland Hancock Hawk, weekly newspapers.

She was also co-author of the History of Pass Christian, published by Lafayette Publishers in 1976.

Only a few days left

The Mobile Medic Ambulance Service subscription drive will end on July 31.

In checking a few days ago with John Rester, he reports that subscriptions are a little above last year at this time. It is important for us not to wait too late and go past the deadline for joining the very important service.

We don't know whether you know it or not, but Mobile Medic now has a permanent staff in Pass Christian, which was added during the past year, enabling better service in Hancock County.

Rester also reports he has to add another staff team on weekends because of the big increase of emergencies.

The cost for a family membership is only $25 per year. A non-member, when he uses the service one time pays more than it costs a family membership for three years at the current rate.

A new feature this year is the taking of Visa and Master charge cards for memberships.

An advertisement appears elsewhere in this issue of the Echo. Cut out the form and send your membership application in today.

We hope you will not need the services of Mobile Medic in the coming year. Many have thought that in the past and have found out that they were wrong.

Mobile Medic's headquarters for Hancock County is now at the trailer park behind the Wheel-Inn Restaurant.

We are sure you have seen the orange and white vehicles used by Mobile Medic many times with lights flashing, taking residents to Hancock General Hospital.

They answered a total 1,713 calls in Hancock County alone for 11 months, June 1, 1978 through May 31, 1979.

We have sent our money in for our subscription and hope you will also.

Please select wisely

On Tuesday, August 7, many of us will be going to the polls to select the officials who will lead us for the next four years.

The offices we will be making selections for are from the governor at the top all the way down to our own district leaders.

Now we realize there will be a general election in November, but the majority of the candidates elected in the August primaries will be the ones representing us come January 1, 1980.

Some candidates make statements about what they are going or not going to do, and there is no possible way of them accomplishing the endeavor.

It would be wise for us to study very hard the statements made by candidates, look at them from both sides is possible before we make the final decision on election day.

We realize the candidates are getting a lot wiser today, because many promises have been made before, not by them but previous candidates which are not around.

If you tell the people you are going to do something and then not do it today, you are in trouble.

There are a lot of factors around today which no one person has direct control over, such as gas prices, cost of food and down the line.

We ask you to be wise in your selections, and to vote for the persons whom you think are sincere and can do or not do the things they say.

Democrats, Republicans and Independent electors - keep America strong by voting on election day.

School budget talks stalled

By RICH ADAMS

A meeting of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board planned Thursday to discuss and possibly approve a proposed $2.6 million budget was postponed some two hours before the 6 p.m. scheduled time due to last minute changes in the budget, according to Superintendent J.D. McCullough.

No data has been established for a rescheduled meeting, the superintendent said Friday, but he said he "hopes to have things straightened out by Monday."

"Thursday we made a lot of changes in the proposed budget. I am trying to set up a new insurance policy, hire a physical education teacher and reading supervisor, buy a few pick-up trucks, and some other minor changes," McCullough explained.

"These changes reflect on the total budget, and we just ran into a time element," the superintendent continued.

"If we change one thing, we will have to go through the entire budget again and check figures," he added.

McCullough said the board would meet again on Monday, but he said he "hopes to have things straightened out by Monday."

crease from local funds; and AAA-certificate teachers with 15 years experience a $150 per year increase.

This is the same proposal made in the form of a motion by Board Member Betty Diboll in a meeting in May, which was unanimously accepted by the board.

McCullough then proposed the present salary scale, which was accepted by the board in place of Ms. Diboll's proposal.

McCullough said Friday the finalized budget "should be in Jackson (to the State Department of Education) by July 15, but that is not mandatory."

"Some schools do get their budgets in on time, others don't," McCullough said Friday.

"When I shoot that budget in, I want it to be right. I always know where we stand, and I am going to know where we stand before final approval by the school board," he added.

MUCH NEEDED SIGN—The City of Waveland has constructed this sign on the sand beach as a warning to swimmers of "the hole" in front of Gulfside Assembly. Examination of the area by the Corps of Engineers last week verified findings by local officials that a dangerous situation still exists after sounding equipment used earlier by the Engineers did not show the "quick sand" nature of the bottom in a long trench. Many drownings have occurred in the area several hundred yards from the sand beach.

WARNING OF DAMAGES—State Highway 606 has been closed in the East lane from Clermont Harbor to Waveland Avenue. A late April storm plus Hurricane Bob forced the closing of the Beach Road to one lane, according to Supervisor Bert Courge. The road has been undermined in several locations, making hazardous driving. When using this section of Highway 606, please drive with extra caution!

NO DIVING—Bay St. Louis Police arrested Jerry Davenport for diving off the Ulman Street Pier in Bay St. Louis which was damaged by Hurricane Bob. Bay Assistant Police Chief Frank Hess warns, "Persons diving or swimming off the Ulman pier will be arrested and charged with trespassing." (Staff photo-Randy Ponder)

Vehicle assessment hearing scheduled

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Hancock County motorists may object to the motor vehicle ad valorem assessment on their vehicles for the coming year at a 9 a.m. public hearing Monday, Aug. 6 at the Courthouse in Bay St. Louis.

The motor vehicle assessment schedule is open for inspection now, according to Assessor-Tax Collector Edward Murphy.

"The motor vehicle assessment schedule is simply a booklet, published by the State Tax Commission, listing the ad valorem assessment placed on vehicles in the county," the assessor's office reports.

This hearing will be conducted during a regular meeting of the County Board of Supervisors for the purpose of hearing and taking action on any complaints filed in writing.

The hearing will give motorists and opportunity to petition for a specified reduction on any portion of the motor vehicle assessment schedule affecting the complainant directly.

The county vehicle assessment schedule for following year has been adopted by the State Tax Commission under the Motor Vehicle Ad Valorem Tax Act of 1966.

Big Brother invades energy and food

July 10, 1979

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

It is small consolation at this stage to realize our gasoline "shortages" have been deliberately created by federal policy, and that our Department of Energy (D.O.E.) with 20,000 employees and a 10.8 billion-dollar budget produce no energy, but actually have a vested interest in promoting the "emergency."

Economist Milton Friedman tells us all the government has to do is legislate a maximum price that is below the prevailing price.

President Nixon imposed wage and price controls in 1971. Although lifted in 1973, controls continued in the petroleum industry. The natural follow-on: while demand increased, production fell off.

One major refinery has been built in the U.S. during the past six years because of government price regulation and environmental restrictions.

Sohio spent millions for approval for a pipeline to move Alaskan oil from the west coast inland.

Environmentalists attacked the project through the courts and the federal bureaucracy stalemated the effort.

The federal bureaucracy and environmentalists force the use of unleaded gas on us, which requires more oil per barrel of crude. Demand for unleaded has increased by 10 percent in the last year.

John O'Leary, Deputy Secretary of D.O.E. tells us there are no major refinery expansions to keep pace with the demand. Federal regulations prevent refiners from sending gasoline where it is needed until everyone on their "list" has been given his share even though they do not need it.

D.O.E.'s "entitlement" program, supposed to "equalize" refinery costs for domestic and O.P.E.C. oil, requires the domestic refiner to pay the cartel refiner, since foreign oil is more expensive, and this while O.P.E.C. has raised prices 500 percent in 6 years.

Federal price control policy has made it profitable to hold back gasoline production because the growing sellers' market allows legal price increases, previously deferred.

The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 held up the Alaska pipeline for six years while foreign cartels set up the O.P.E.C. organization.

Development of our outer shelf has been slowed coincident with a retroactive doubling of rental fees on most federal offshore oil and gas.

It now takes the Bureau of Land Management up to three years to process and oil permit.

In Nevada there is a backlog of oil and gas applications for more than 530 leases covering a million acres. In Montana, there are 3,000 backlogged applications.

Shortages are a natural result of the federal government's policy, the sharp drop in domestic production as a result of price controls; disruption of Iranian gasoline because of Carter's betrayal of the Shah; the government's 46-million barrel "emergency" gasoline allocation to states and "priority"

Corps disinterested in Waveland's hole

By EDGAR PEREZ

Mayor John Longo of Waveland reported to that city's aldermen last week a spokesman for the U.S. Corps of Engineers has stated the Corps doesn't intend to spend any money in Mississippi on a dangerous hole in navigable waters off the Gulfside Assembly Center there.

"I'm really disappointed in the Corps if that's true," the mayor moaned.

Longo explained he had been interviewed by newsmen from WLOX-TV in Biloxi last week after existence and exact nature of the suspected area in the surf had been confirmed in inspections by himself, Waveland Fire Marshal Lee Ferrell and Hancock Supervisors Sam Perrin and Bert Courge, as well as by Hancock Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin and Corps representatives.

"The television reporters expanded their report on the hole by calling the Corps in Mobile, and that's when the Corps man made the statement they have no intention of helping us," Longo said at a board of aldermen meeting Wednesday night.

Alderman Barbara Rappold noted if the hole remains unaltered, "It's a death trap now."

The mayor said he has received an encouraging proposal from Waveland resident Joe Colson, formerly affiliated with the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission.

"Colson feels if we could contact the right people, we might be able to get that hole developed into an oyster reef," the mayor elaborated.

"I like that idea taking this awful situation with this hole and turn it into something beautiful, something from which we can really benefit," Longo said.

Some 20 persons have drowned in the hole during the past several years, the latest this summer even though the Corps attempted to fill the hole with dredging material last year.

Longo said the effort of the mayor and Colson is continuing and he is for all that still concerned about the hole.

Colson said he is currently working on a plan to fill the hole with dredging material, and is looking for more information.

Fraternity President Chuck Benigno of Waveland said the group is composed of students from Bay Senior High and St. Stanislaus High School.

"We have three purposes," Benigno told the board, "brotherhood, love of God, and community service."

"Anytime you have a project on your hands in which you can use 20 young men, call on us," Benigno offered.

"That's what we're here for."

The board heard a budget request from Nancy Ger, the city's representative of the Hancock County Library Board of Trustees.

Longo promised her he would attempt to raise the city's contribution to the library system back up to $3,500 and city contributed $3,100 to the library system last year.

Political candidate Sonny Ladner who is seeking the Hancock County Board of Supervisors post from District Two made an appeal for votes at the meeting, offering to render special assistance to the City of Waveland if elected.

Rappold, who is also city clerk, reported the city's gasoline allocation for July has been increased some 1,500 gallons by the Mississippi Fuel and Energy Management Commission.

The city previously had been allotted 3,400 gallons for July.

"This increase should see us through the month easily," she reported.

Toomay generated a discussion of a long-term problem with standing water on Laffite Drive.

"There's a branch that goes through there, right in the heart of town, and we need to do something about it," Longo added.

"That road is a ditch, really," said Alderman Herman Yarbrough, who is also city streets and utilities supervisor.

He suggested moving the standing water out with street sweeper, as a way to solve the problem.

Rockwell to preview Shuttle launch

Rockwell International, prime contractor for the NASA Space Shuttle, is offering the citizens of Hancock County and other communities surrounding NSTL a "sneak preview" of the Shuttle launch with a showing of its much heralded sound-and-sight presentation, "Rockwell...In The Beginning."

The multimedia production will be shown Thursday at the Sidel Municipal Civic Auditorium, 2056 Second Avenue, at 10 a.m., 2 and 4 p.m.. No admission will be charged.

The computer-operated show, which uses 12 projectors, three screens and a "sense-around" sound system, is currently touring Rockwell plant cities throughout the nation and Canada, according to Gerald L. Wilson, Rockwell Main Propulsion System (MPS) director and resident manager at NSTL.

"The tour is being conducted by the company to inform its employees and the general public of the Shuttle's role in the future utilization of space," Wilson explained.

Through artist renderings and special effects, the presentation offers a glimpse of the maiden voyage of the Shuttle, which is to be launched later this year from Kennedy Space Center, Florida.

The show also recounts the days of the Apollo moon-landing mission and portrays the role the corporation has played in the aerospace and related high-technology field. "1979 is the Year of the Shuttle," said Wilson. "Rockwell is sponsoring this exciting show to help rekindle public interest in the nation's space program, which still represents one of man's greatest technological achievements."

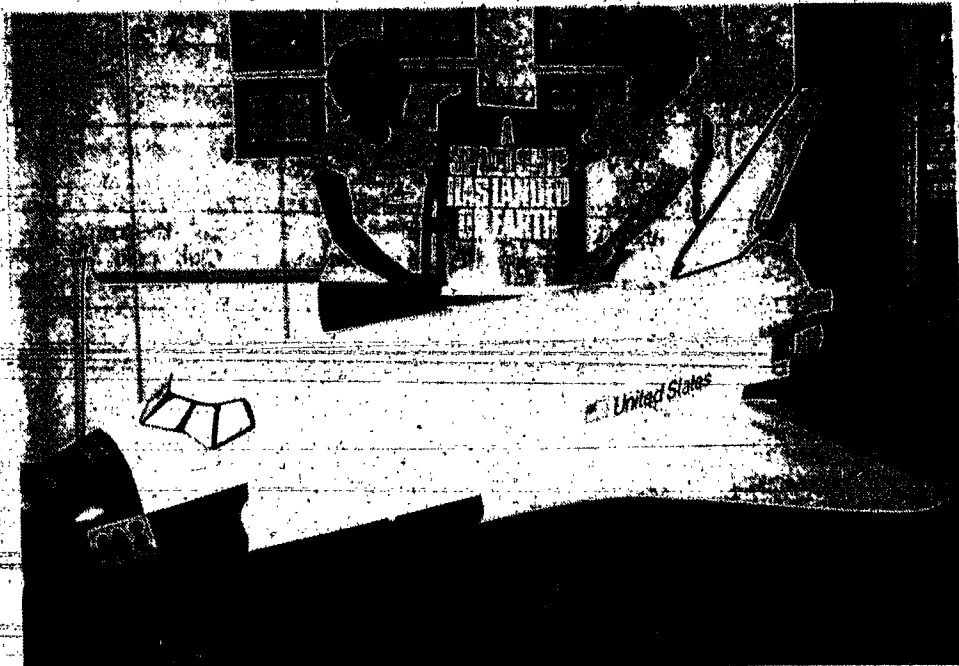

"Here at NSTL, we are developing and testing the MPS to be used in propelling the Space Shuttle into space."

This system consists of an orbiter aft fuselage, an externally mounted propellant tank and three main engines. "This critical phase of developmental testing will determine the systems capability under as close a launch and flight conditions as possible."

"NSTL offers a perfect facility to accomplish this. It is only fitting that we bring this Sneak Preview to the area for our communities to witness the benefit of NSTL's contribution to Space Exploration," Wilson stated.

The show has already been seen by thousands of people across the country and has received rave reviews from several astronauts for its realism, the company executive reported.

"With the Shuttle," stated Wilson, "we are now at the threshold of the industrialization of space."

SHUTTLE DEMONSTRATION + Linda Lull, left, and Lana Sommer, Rockwell employees show a Space Shuttle model which will be part of Rockwell International's celebration of the 10th anniversary of man's moon walk through a multimedia space extravaganza Thursday at the Sidel Municipal Civic Auditorium. The show will be open to the public at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

LPGA tourney begins at Diamondhead July 30

By RICH ADAMS
The 49th Ladies' Professional Golf Association sanctioned Women's Trans-National Championship, this year slated at the Diamondhead Yacht and Country Club in Hancock County July 30, will feature "one of the largest and best fields in the event's history," according to Diamondhead Golf Professional Bob Stanton.

"We have contenders from all over the continental United States, two from Hawaii, and six from South Africa," he added.
The LPGA is saying this year will feature one of the largest and best fields ever, the golf pro stated.
Stanton, a former member of the Professional Golf Association, has moved a step closer to establishing Diamondhead as a regular stop on the LPGA tour with announcement of the Trans-National visit to the Gulf Coast.

The prestigious Trans-National Golf Association is a 2,000-member organization. "This is really a major tournament," Stanton said upon announcing the selection of Diamondhead as the site for the tournament.
"It is on par with the Women's National Amateur and the top women golfers in the country will be here to participate," he said.
Diamondhead was host to the 1978 Women's Western Golf Association Junior Open Invitational in July, 1978.
The 49th annual championship will be staged on the luxurious par 72 layout that can lay between 5,000 and 7,000 yards.
Among directors of the Trans-National is Mrs. John J. McDonald of Bay St. Louis.

A list of the field in the Trans-National will be released later this week, Stanton said.

FOUR BEFORE THEIR LPGA TOUR Stanton said that the 49th annual championship will be staged on the luxurious par 72 layout that can lay between 5,000 and 7,000 yards.

District 1

ATTENTION!! RESIDENTS OF THE COMMUNITIES
AND ALL SUBDIVISIONS
HANCOCK COUNTY

During this campaign, I have traveled throughout Beat 1 and have observed the poor conditions of the roads and drainage and a lot of other things that I think need improvements.

MY PLATFORM IS AS FOLLOWS:

1. If elected, I will be a Supervisor for all of the communities and subdivisions of Beat 1. Every family in this Beat will have a good road and proper drainage so they can get in and out from their home in the wet winter months.
2. We also need a high school in the southern part of the county. If money is not available by a Bond Issue, we should consider working something out with Bay St. Louis and Waveland Districts. Our school at Hancock North Central is just too far to bus our children to and from the southern part of Hancock County.
3. We will pick up garbage at no increase of taxes three times a week in all of our communities. I know what problems we have here and I believe the same exists in the other communities.
4. We need to work with our hospital board and doctors to purchase new and modern equipment to speed up diagnosis of the patients instead of having to send them to New Orleans or Gulfport.
5. I believe we can accomplish more for our County by working with the other members of the Supervisors by having harmony existing and trying to understand their problems for the people they represent, just as I do mine. One member cannot do anything by himself.
6. I will work for lowering flood control in the Lakeshore, Ansley and Pearlinton areas. This has stopped a lot of building in the coastal area and stopping our growth. I understand our present Board has already started this action which I believe is good.
7. I will be a full-time Supervisor, 7 days a week.
8. For the people who don't know me, I own and operate Reynolds Grocery in Pearlinton.
9. I plan to have a Community Center in each community; also hire a person to keep it clean. I would like to have a building such as we have in Pearlinton which can be used as a voting precinct, a meeting place for Senior Citizens, wedding receptions or any other organizations that need such a place.
10. Some Supervisors do nothing for 3 1/2 years, then they start as many projects as possible to sway voters at the 11th hour. I will give jobs to the handicapped as well as the minority. This is required for revenue sharing money. We need to work these people so we can reduce our national budget and return the amount of Welfare and Social Security to the Government and this way, if we all do this, we would keep our President keep his promise he made during his campaign.
11. I will put my crew in all public cemeteries. Road and gravel will be in every cemetery for the old graves and new graves. All roads to the cemeteries will be paved with proper parking facilities. I will have a cemetery at the rear of the Pearlinton Cemetery and open all the old graves in the cemetery. I will have a cemetery at the rear of the Pearlinton Cemetery and open all the old graves in the cemetery. I will have a cemetery at the rear of the Pearlinton Cemetery and open all the old graves in the cemetery.

Lagarde takes top spot in Louisiana tournament

Liz Lagarde of Bay St. Louis, a sophomore at Southeastern Louisiana University, recently defeated Jenny Pharr of Lake Charles, La. to win first place in the Bocage Racquet Club Invitational at Baton Rouge, La.

Lagarde is attending Southeastern on a tennis scholarship following a tennis career here during her high school years. In addition to her win in Baton Rouge, Lagarde reached the semi-finals in the Mississippi State Junior Tournament in June.

She qualified among the top four 18-year-old girls to play in the Southern Closed at Nashville, Tenn. She reached the finals in the Tulane Junior Invitational at New Orleans, only to be defeated by Jacquelyn Henderson of Louisiana, 3-6, 4-6.

She split four games, winning two and losing two in the Southern Closed June 26.

Her most substantial win was against Woody Corey, a member of the North Carolina Tennis Team. She participated in the Mississippi Junior Open, making the quarter-finals in that event.

Lagarde qualified to participate in the National Girls 18's Clay Court Championship beginning today, but decided rather to become an instructor at the Pelican Tennis Camp at Southeastern University.

Future tournaments for Lagarde include August events in Mobile, Ala., Morgan City, La., Diamondhead, and Bay St. Louis.

She will return to the university and the tennis team later in August.

DON'T BE DISTRESSED

If you're in trouble on the water, don't just wave at passing boats for help. They'll probably wave back. Instead, use one of the recognized marine distress signals—an orange flag or a life jacket tied to an oar—and wave. Another suggestion from the Mercury outboard boating experts is to use a pocket mirror or the bottom of a beverage can to reflect the sun's rays to attract attention. At night, light a flare. Or signal shore with your flashlight. Most important, stay with the boat until help comes.

Lightning rods prevent maritime hazards

The Sea Grant Advisory Service and National Fire Protection Association say boats are easy targets for lightning, and vessels can be protected by installing a metal rod so it sticks up at least six inches above the highest point on a boat.

This metal rod should have conductivity equal to or better than No. 8 copper cable and should be connected through a similar cable to a ground plate on the wetted surface of the hull, the agencies suggest. This connecting cable should be laid as directly as possible to the ground plate, the agencies advise.

A lightning rod of this type provides a cone of protection to the area beneath any line drawn from the top of the lightning rod downward at an angle of 60 degrees from the vertical.

A metal hull provides adequate ground, and if there is a good metal contact beween hull and metal masts, no further protection from lightning is necessary, the agencies explained.

For more information on lightning protection, write the Mississippi State University Cooperative Extension Service in Mississippi State, Miss., 39762.

Striped bass stocking efforts termed successful

A three-year project to stock the Bay of St. Louis and Biloxi Back Bay with thousands of striped bass is in its final year, and the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission is calling the project a success.

The quarter-inch "stripers" were obtained from South Carolina and also from the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission (MGFC), according to biologist Larry Nicholson.

Approximately 500,000 fry came from South Carolina while 250,000 were received from the MGFC laboratory near Canton.

In late April the tiny fish were stocked into the closed, recirculating raceway system on the main campus of the Louisiana State University Laboratory for Aquaculture and Fisheries.

There have been two primary objectives of the project: 1) the rearing and subsequent release of striped bass fingerlings of South Carolina origin into the Biloxi Bay system and 2) the release of striped bass from North Carolina and/or Virginia into the Bay of St. Louis.

The fish required to fulfill the latter commitment are currently being reared at the Louisiana State University Laboratory. They were received from the Virginia Game and Fish Commission consisting of 100,000 fingerlings on June 1 and will be released plankton, laboratory-hatched brine shrimp, and prepared trout food.

The feeding regime and rearing system employed by project personnel was successful in rearing over 30 percent of the fish received during the first half of the rearing season. This is a rate equivalent to that of successful hatcheries employing ponds in their culture, Nicholson stated.

The project is in the final year of a 3-year program of rearing striped bass at the Louisiana State University Laboratory.

There have been two primary objectives of the project: 1) the rearing and subsequent release of striped bass fingerlings of South Carolina origin into the Biloxi Bay system and 2) the release of striped bass from North Carolina and/or Virginia into the Bay of St. Louis.

The fish required to fulfill the latter commitment are currently being reared at the Louisiana State University Laboratory. They were received from the Virginia Game and Fish Commission consisting of 100,000 fingerlings on June 1 and will be released in early July. In addition to the striped bass already stocked by the Laboratory this year and those that are being reared for stocking in July, 200,000 fingerlings were stocked in the Biloxi Bay system by the Federal Hatchery in Meridian.

The Meridian hatchery is also cooperating with the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission in stocking inland waters. Over 400 striped bass of various sizes were reported caught this past year by Laboratory personnel by local fishermen. The largest fish weighed over 12 pounds.

Project workers have also taken several striped bass in their efforts to assess the survival of the stocked fish as well as determine whether or not the fish are reproducing naturally. Although over 400 striped bass were reported, this figure represents only a fraction of the total number caught, Mellwein pointed out.

Anyone who catches a striped bass is asked to contact the Laboratory in Ocean Springs to report the size, date, location, type of bait used and whether or not the

USM receives grant for salt dome study

The Department of Chemistry at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg has received a grant from the U.S. Department of Energy for $35,000 to conduct a study of water samples taken at the Tatum Salt Dome in Lamar County. The USM Chemistry Department will act as independent laboratory in the investigation and will work in conjunction with the Environmental Protection Agency and the Division of Radiological Health, State Department of Health. According to the primary investigator for the project, Dr. James W. Pinson, water from the Tatum Dome, a site of underground nuclear tests in 1964 and 1966, will be analyzed to determine the amount of tritium, or radioactive hydrogen, attached to the water molecules. "The water in the dome has a potential to be a part of the overall clean-up problem there," said Pinson.
